From the Mayor

With the County's decision to reinstate the indoor facemask mandate, Town Council meetings will remain virtual for the foreseeable future. All scheduled indoor events at the Armory will require a mask.

Many thanks to Mark Hudson for organizing the 4th of July Bike Parade, KHS for bringing back the popular Summer Concert series, KBDA for sponsoring the monthly Food Truck Night and KVFD for the Movie in the Park event.

We've been able to bring back most of everyone's favorite events this year, so be sure to check out the Upcoming Events listing inside the Journal.

Town News

Welcome Alex Marini

By: Conor Crimmins

Meet Alex Marini, the Town of Kensington's new Assistant to the Town Manager. After an extensive search and interview process, the Town is excited to welcome Alex to the Town staff where she will work to support Town Manager Matt Hoffman in the management and operations of the Town.

Alex was born and raised in Cumberland, a city of just over 20,000 in western Maryland. She attended West Virginia University where she received a Bachelor of Science degree in fashion merchandising and participated in a management internship with Nordstrom. Alex returned to Nordstrom after graduation to begin her career in fashion and retail as a department manager, first in Freehold, New Jersey and then Bethesda, Maryland.

While working at Nordstrom, Alex became deeply engaged in the 2016 election and campaign issues such as healthcare and the opioid crisis and housing policy -- two issues that were impacting her hometown of Cumberland especially hard. Alex began diving deeper into policy topics by listening to political and policy podcasts (one of her favorite pastimes) over the next couple years. In 2018, while following the midterm elections, Alex discovered a passion for local government and how it touches the lives of the people it serves most directly.

Alex decided to follow her passions and made a career change, bringing the customer service skills learned and developed in retail with her to College Park, Maryland where she earned a Master of Public Policy degree from the University of Maryland. As part of her masters program, Alex completed an internship with the Maryland Municipal League where she applied her public policy skills in support of her hometown of Cumberland by working alongside city and county officials on housing policy challenges affecting Cumberland and the greater Allegany County area.

Alex began her role with the Town of Kensington in late June 2021. While in the Town, Alex is working to get to know residents and business owners and how the Town works to support how they live and work in Kensington. As a self described "foodie", Alex has begun a personal tour of each of the Town's restaurants with a goal to try each and every one. When not in the Town, Alex enjoys hiking or listening to true crime or political podcasts at home in College Park with her cat, Millie, a 4-year old calico rescue.

Please take the time to welcome Alex to the Town of Kensington. You may stop by Town Hall to say hi or greet Alex as she's out and about in Town or email her at Alex.Marini@tok.md.gov.

Kensington Racial Justice

The Kensington Racial Justice Committee aims to understand how past inequities shaped Kensington, support actions to dismantle systemic racism, and celebrate our diversity, building a more engaged and inclusive community. We welcome all community members to join us. Please contact us at kensingtonracialjustice@gmail.com to get involved. We were able to convene this summer to plan our activities for the next year. We will share more details soon. In the meantime, we are thrilled to announce that local author Dax Devlon-Ross will join us for a discussion of his new book Letters to My White Male Friends for our 2nd Community Read on Saturday, October 9 at 4pm at Howard Avenue Park, with October 10 as the rain date. Get your copy now! Books can be purchased from the Kensington Row Bookshop, or check-out a copy from our Racial Justice Committee book cart at Town Hall. Please stop by to borrow a copy or to browse our other book selections. More information is below.

Where are these books?

You will find the books on a library book cart in the Map Room on the main floor at Town Hall. You may stop by Town Hall anytime during office hours to browse and select a book.

How do I check out a book?

Please use the circulation card in the back of the book to sign your name, cell number or email. We ask that you return a book within (6) weeks to the book cart at Town Hall.

Will new books be added to the lending library?

We hope so! This is a Kensington community collection. We hope to add new books to this lending library so it will continue to grow. Please contact: kensingtonracialjustice@gmail.com with your suggestions or comments.

What books are in the lending library?

Here is a list of current titles on the book cart:

Pedestrian and Bicycling Access and Safety Working Group (PBASWG) Update

The PBASWG (“WG”) has made significant progress on the recommendations it provided to the Mayor and Town Council in February. Most notably, the WG collaborated with Montgomery County Department of Transportation (MCDOT) to apply for and secure a $55,000 grant through the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) Transportation Land Use Connections (TLC) program. The Town is grateful to MCDOT for their partnership on the grant and to County Councilmembers Alborno, Friedson, and Glass for their expressed support of the proposal.

The COG TLC grant will support the services of a consulting firm to develop several alternative visions for a transformed Connecticut Avenue corridor that delivers concrete and innovative improvements in pedestrian and bicycling access and safety, as well as improved connectivity. The process will involve significant opportunities for community feedback and engagement, and will kick off this fall (expected completion of the work is June 2022). The analysis and design options are expected to cover the primary study area of the Connecticut Avenue corridor, as well as secondary study areas that intersect with Connecticut Avenue: Knowles Avenue, Plyers Mill Road/Metropolitan Avenue, and University Boulevard.

The WG also worked with Town staff to apply for the Town of Kensington to receive Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) designation as a Bicycle & Pedestrian Priority Area (BPPA). State BPPA designation would help with facilitating: coordination across government jurisdictions and stakeholder groups; the planning of bicycle and pedestrian improvements; and design recommendations to align jurisdictions’ bicycle and pedestrian planning in the BPPA area. The Town is grateful to MCDOT and the Montgomery County Planning Board for their expressed endorsement of the State BPPA designation application.

In addition to these two activities, the WG has been hard at work on other efforts to promote pedestrian and bicycling access and safety. For more details, please visit the Town Committees website at tok.md.gov/town-government/committee to view the WG’s meeting minutes and/or recordings.

Organizational Update

During the Town Council Organizational Meeting in July, the Council agreed to integrate the WG within the Traffic Committee. The WG’s function and composition will remain as it currently stands – including to allow for selected participants from neighboring jurisdictions to join the meetings. The plan is to ultimately rename the Committee to better capture the expanded nature of its activities.

WG co-chairs, Councilmember Engle and Anne-Marie Turner, welcome additional residents to participate in the WG who have a strong interest in these topics and/or have skills to offer that can help with promoting pedestrian and bicycling access and safety. If interested, please send an email to: nateengletok@gmail.com.

“Walk (and Bike) the Talk” – Ask Us Your Burning Questions!

We invite residents to submit inquiries to the WG seeking advice on specific pedestrian and bicycling access and safety issues (e.g., local/state laws regulations, good practice examples, where to find resources, etc.). Starting this month, we’ll feature one of these questions and give our best attempt to answer it. All published questions will remain anonymous (although we may indicate a fictitious name for fun). Please send inquiries to: nateengletok@gmail.com.

For this month, our question comes from Zeke: “Where can I find best practices for bicycling safety?”

Response: We suggest as a first stop to head on over to the Bike Maryland website at BikeMaryland.org/resources/safety where you’ll find information on cycling safety for cyclists and motorists. We also suggest visiting the Maryland Department of Transportation State Highway Administration (MDOT SHA) Be Street Wise Initiative at Roads.Maryland.gov/mdotsha/pages/index.aspx?PageId=357, which endeavors to educate Marylanders (adults and children) on best practices to Drive Safe, Walk Safe and Bike Safe. The take-home message here is for both bicyclists and drivers to always remember that ‘We’re On This Road Together’.

Pets Are Home - Now Open!

Nathan and Ross Chefetz love dogs and are the proud parents of Cotton, a French mastiff, who loves the Kensington Dog Run! They are also the proud owners of Pets Are Home, Kensington's newest pet store.

The Chefetzes live in Kensington where Nathan runs a global pet products company, Wigzi, from their home. Wigzi products are sold in 20 countries, and all products are creative inventions of Nathan and his cofounder, Cade.

Pets Are Home, a small business located in Knowles Station, just opened on August 21, 2021. The shop is packed with a whole lot of everything for your pet. Pets Are Home carries a variety of freeze-dried raw food, frozen food, kibble, wet food, toys, treats and more, for dogs and cats of all ages. Nathan and Ross are well-versed in what dogs and cats need for a healthy lifestyle, and thoughtfully select each product they sell in their store, knowing that Kensingtonians are discerning pet parents.

Kensington Historical Society

THE NOT QUITE SO GAY NINETIES IN KENSINGTON

by Peter Roman, KHS Archives Committee

This feature article courtesy of the Kensington Historical Society.

The trouble started around 1890. That was when the Knowles and other farm families began to feel displaced by the new city people who were moving in and building summer homes in their little town. Years before the B&O Railroad tracks had been laid down right through the middle of the Knowles family's farm. When they built a railroad station in 1891, they not surprisingly named it Knowles Station.

But by 1890 some enterprising developers started touting Knowles Station as a cool quiet place to build a summer home, only nine or so miles from the crowded and fetid city. It was a place "free from swamps and consequential malaria," and "its people are people of culture and essential refinement."

One of the cultured and refined people who came was Brainard Warner. A self made Pennsylvania farm boy, noted for having a quick smile and his elbows out, he had parlayed a staff position in the Army's Civil War Washington headquarters into making sufficient acquaintances and deals that by 1890 he was both wealthy and well connected.

He bought 18 lots on the south side of the railroad tracks and built the very large summer "cottage" that you see today in the middle of Warner Circle. He got his friends to come and build summer homes too. Later, the story goes, on a trip to England he became quite taken with London's new, and posh, leafy suburb of Kensington. Returning home, he used his connections to get the town incorporated, and, incidentally, get it, the post office and the railroad station renamed as "Kensington."

That put the cat in with the pigeons. Or, as Kensington historian Wilson Townsend put it "a source of friction developed when Mr. Warner persuaded the RR company to change the name of the station to Kensington. This naturally incensed the many friends and relatives of the Knowles family, and may have been responsible for the political disputes which later developed to divide the town between the newer an older residents."

Fortunately, nothing upsetting like that has ever happened again in Kensington. Except, perhaps, for the fights about who was to pay for paving the streets and installing water and sewer, and historical preservation versus development, and whether the town should stay dry or allow restaurants to serve liquor and things like that. And of course the Republicans and Democrats occasionally raised their voices to each other...but those are stories for another time.

Join the KTown Ladies for our upcoming events this fall! After cooling off from the summer heat with a Sip 'n Dip pool party in August, KTL is looking forward to autumn temperatures, fall colors, and a full slate of new events.

On September 8 at 6:30pm, the KTown Ladies will gather for a Sip 'n Shop at Howard Avenue boutique and KTown gem SW7 to share some drinks and enjoy the shop's fantastic selection of gifts, contemporary housewares, art and more. We will also offer an opportunity to order charcuterie boxes with meats and cheeses from neighboring restaurant DeliClub to snack on during the event for $15, reserved in advance. You can RSVP for the event on our website – hope to see you there!

Later in September, the KTown Ladies are excited to co-sponsor Opera in the Circle with the Friends of Warner Circle (on September 19) and Kensington's annual Trash to Treasure event with Kyle Richards (on September 25). In October, KTL will host a mixology event at Dish and Dram. Join us to learn how to make fun cocktails, which will be paired with small plates – more details to come!
